

Mikhail Antonov
Associate Professor, National Research University

Mikhail Antonov is Professor of Law associated with the Law Faculty at the National Research University Higher School of Economics. He also practices law as an advocate at Saint Petersburg Bar Association, engaged as a partner at the Aspectum Advocate Bureau. Dr Antonov is a member of various international expert boards, including the G.F. Kennan Institute at the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars and the EU-Central Asia Rule-of-Law Platform.

Katy G. Bass
Research Director, Knight Institute at Columbia University

Katy Glenn Bass is the Knight Institute's research director. She was previously the director of PEN America's Free Expression Research and Policy program, where she supervised the production of reports analysing free expression issues including the lack of protections for national security whistleblowers, attacks on journalists covering the 2014 protests in Ferguson, Missouri, the impact of mass surveillance on online speech, and other topics. Katy has also taught at NYU Law's Center for Constitutional Transitions and at the Walter Leitner International Human Rights Clinic at Fordham Law School. She holds a B.A. from Princeton University and a J.D. from Harvard Law School, where she received the Kaufman Pro Bono Service Award.

Sjoerd Beugelsdijk
Professor, University of Groningen

Sjoerd Beugelsdijk is a professor and director of the Global Economics and Management research center at the University of Groningen. His academic career can best be described as a long-term attempt to integrate cultural values and norms in the discipline of economics and business.

Christian Bjørnskov Professor, Aarhus University

Christian Bjørnskov is Professor of Economics at the Department of Economics, Aarhus University, in Aarhus, Denmark, and Affiliated Researcher at the Research Institute of Industrial Economics in Stockholm, Sweden. Most of his research focuses on the political economy of institutions. His research has been published in journals such as American Journal of Political Science, the Journal of Development Economics, the Academy of Management Perspectives, and Public Choice.

Saskia Brechenmacher
Fellow, Carnegie Endowment for International Peace

Saskia Brechenmacher is an Associate Fellow in Carnegie's Democracy, Conflict, and Governance Program, where her research focuses on gender, democracy, and political violence, as well as trends in civic activism and civil society repression. Prior to joining Carnegie, she worked at the World Peace Foundation in Boston, the Institute for Human Security at Tufts University, and Carnegie Europe in Brussels. Brechenmacher is a graduate of Carnegie's James C. Gaither Junior Fellows Program, a Humanity in Action Senior Fellow, and an alumna of the Atlantik Brücke Young Leaders Program. Her work has appeared in The National Interest, The Pacific Standard, The Hill, Open Democracy, and other outlets. She holds a BA from Brown University and an MA from the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy.

Anne-Marie Brook
Co-founder and Development Lead,
Human Rights Measurement Initiative

Anne-Marie Brook is a former OECD economist and cofounder of the Human Rights Measurement Initiative, based at Motu Research, an independent not-for-profit research institute based in Wellington, New Zealand. She has degrees in Psychology and Economics and a Masters of Public Affairs from the Woodrow Wilson School at Princeton University.

Alison Brysk
Mellichamp Professor, University of California, Santa Barbara

Alison Brysk is the Duncan and Suzanne Mellichamp Professor of Global Governance at the University of California, Santa Barbara. She is the author or editor of fourteen books on human rights, including Speaking Rights to Power, From Tribal Village to Global Village, Human Rights and Private Wrongs, and most recently Contesting Violence Against Women (Oxford University Press). Professor Brysk was selected a Fulbright Professor in 2007 (Canada) and 2011 (India), a Fellow at the Woodrow Wilson Center in 2013-2014, the International Studies Association Distinguished Scholar in Human Rights 2015-2016, the American Political Science Association Distinguished Scholar in Human Rights in 2017, and a member of the Council on Foreign Relations in 2018.

Meagan Cahill
Senior Policy Researcher, RAND Corporation

Meagan Cahill is a senior policy researcher at the RAND Corporation. For more than 15 years, she has been conducting research and evaluation on a variety of criminology and public safety areas, especially those related to crime and place in the United States. Her current work focuses on policing and community wellbeing, including studies of police strategies and other efforts to reduce crime in communities. She is also working to improve and study the relationship between police and the communities they serve.

David CuillierAssociate Professor, University of Arizona

David Cuillier, Ph.D., is an associate professor at the University of Arizona School of Journalism, where he teaches and researches access to government information. He serves as president of the National Freedom of Information Coalition and is former president of the Society of Professional Journalists. He's testified numerous times before Congress about the U.S. Freedom of Information Act and is co-author of The Art of Access: Strategies for Acquiring Public Records.

Bill DixonProfessor of Criminology, Nottingham University

Bill Dixon is Professor of Criminology in the School of Sociology and Social Policy at the University of Nottingham. After working in local government and the third sector, he has taught at universities in South Africa and Namibia as well as the UK. His main research interests are in crime and crime control in South Africa and the rapidly developing field of southern criminology. He has published on police accountability and the perpetrators of racially motivated violence and harassment.

Francis Fukuyama

Mosbacher Director of the Center on Democracy,
Development and the Rule of Law, Stanford University

Francis Fukuyama is Olivier Nomellini Senior Fellow at the Freeman Spogli Institute for International Studies (FSI), and the Mosbacher Director of FSI's Center on Democracy, Development, and the Rule of Law. He is professor (by courtesy) of political science.

Mark Gibney
Belk Distinguished Professor of Humanities and Political Science,
University of North Carolina-Asheville

Mark Gibney is the Belk Distinguished Professor at the University of North Carolina-Asheville and an Affiliated Scholar with the Raoul Wallenberg Institute for Human Rights and Humanitarian Law. Professor Gibney is one of the founding members of the Extraterritorial Obligations (ETO) Consortium and one of the signers of the 2011 Maastricht ETO Principles. Since 1984 he has directed the Political Terror Scale, which is the most widely used human rights data set in the world.

Nazim Habibov Professor, University of Windsor

Nazim Habibov is a Professor at the School of Social Work at the University of Windsor. He taught social policy analyses and development and program evaluation. Nazim's research interests include social welfare, healthcare, and education policies in post-communist and developed countries.

Seok-Woo KwonRobson Professorship in Entrepreneurship, University of Calgary

Seok-Woo Kwon holds the Robson Professorship in Entrepreneurship at the University of Calgary. He has previously taught at Temple University, University of California at Riverside, University of Kentucky, and University of Southern California. His research interests focus on the social context of innovation and entrepreneurship.

Todd LandmanProfessor of Political Science, University of Nottingham

Todd Landman is Professor of Political Science and Pro-Vice-Chancellor with responsibility for the Faculty of Social Sciences at The University of Nottingham. He is the Executive Director of the Rights Lab, a University Beacon of Excellence carrying out research on ending modern slavery. Professor Landman is responsible for leading the Faculty of Social Sciences, which has over 10,000 students and 680 staff across seven schools, including the School of Law, the School of Politics and International Relations, the School of Sociology and Social Policy, the School of Economics, the School of Geography, the School of Education, and Nottingham University Business School.

David LandsmanDirector, Beargarden Advisory

David Landsman is a Non-Executive Director and Adviser working with companies in diverse sectors on strategy, stakeholder management and geopolitical risk. He was formerly Europe Geography Head of the Tata Group and previously a senior British diplomat, serving most recently as Ambassador to Greece. He is a Chartered Director.

Joseph D. Lewandowski
Professor of Philosophy, University of Central Missouri

Joseph Lewandowski is an educator, researcher and author whose work focuses on social capital, sport, and inequality in the urban milieu. The former holder of the Fulbright-Masaryk Distinguished Chair in Social Studies at Masaryk University (Brno, Czech Republic), among his many publications Lewandowski is most recently the author of Sport, Trust, and Social Capital (Journal of Comparative Sociology) and co-editor of Urban Social Capital: Civil Society and City Life (Routledge). His current project is devoted to social poverty and post-industrial American urban life.

Eguiar LizundiaSenior Manager for Governance,
International Republican Institute

Eguiar Lizundia is a Senior Manager for Governance at the International Republican Institute. Previously he worked at the World Bank as well as in both the private and non-profit sectors. He writes regularly for Spanish media outlets and his contributions have appeared in several U.S. publications.

Yuki Lo
Senior Research & Evaluation Officer, Freedom Fund

Yuki Lo is the Senior Research and Evaluation Officer at the Freedom Fund and leads the Fund's work on measuring the impact of its investments in countries with the highest incidence of slavery, as well as supporting knowledge-sharing with the broader anti-slavery community. She is currently supervising research in Ethiopia, India, Myanmar, Nepal, and Thailand on the topics of forced labour, child labour, forced marriage, and sex trafficking. Prior to joining the Freedom Fund, she worked as a Manager of Evidence Measurement and Evaluation for the Children's Investment Fund Foundation and as the Monitoring & Evaluation Officer for UN Women in Cambodia.

Carol Ann MacGregor
Professor, Loyola University, New Orleans

Carol Ann MacGregor is Associate Professor of Sociology and Senior Director of Institutional Research, Effectiveness, and Faculty Development at Loyola University New Orleans. Her research on Catholic K-12 education, religious non-affiliation, and religion and civic engagement has appeared in journals including American Catholic Studies, American Sociological Review, Journal for the Scientific Study of Religion, and Social Science Research. Her papers have been awarded best article awards by the Society for the Scientific Study of Religion and the American Sociological Association section on Altruism, Morality, and Social Solidarity. She has also been named a non-residential Associate Fellow of the Institute for Advanced Studies in Culture at the University of Virginia.

Fred McMahon
Resident Fellow, Fraser Institute

Fred McMahon is project editor of the Human Freedom Index, jointly published by the Fraser Institute, Friedrich Naumann Foundation for Freedom, and Cato Institute. He manages Fraser's Economic Freedom project, which has member institutes in 95 nations and publishes the Economic Freedom Indexes of the World, of the Arab World, and of North America, and is co-author of the latter two.

Toby MendelExecutive Director, Centre for Law and Democracy

Toby Mendel is the founder and Executive Director of the Centre for Law and Democracy, an international human rights NGO focusing on foundational rights for democracy, including freedom of expression, the right to information, the freedoms of association and assembly, and the right to participate. Before that, for over 12 years he was Senior Director for Law at Article 19, an international human rights NGO focused on freedom of expression. He has published widely on a range of topics and regularly advises governments and inter-governmental organisations.

Tanja Porčnik
President, Visio Institute

Tanja Porčnik is the president of the Visio Institute. She is also an adjunct scholar at the Cato Institute. Ms. Porčnik is co-author of The Human Freedom Index. Previously, she served as the Director of the Fraser Institute's Centre for Economic and Human Freedom Studies, Senior Fellow of the Atlas Network, and a Government Teaching Fellow of the American Institute on Political and Economic Systems. Ms. Porčnik is Editor of The Visio Journal and a frequent commentator on human rights, law, and economic policy in the media.

Tristram Riley-Smith

External Champion to the RCUK Partnership for Conflict,
Crime and Security Research, University of Cambridge

Tristram Riley-Smith is a specialist in national security who spent 30 years in government service, and now divides his time between University of Cambridge (where he is Director of Research in Politics and International Studies) and the City (where he is Director of the Security & Resilience Division of Anglo Scientific, and founder of two start-up companies). Tristram studied Social Anthropology and wrote The Cracked Bell: America and the Afflictions of Liberty (2010).

Andrea Ruggeri
Professor of Political Science and International Relations,
University of Oxford

Andrea Ruggeri is Professor of Political Science and International Relations and Director of the Centre for International Studies at the University of Oxford. He joined Brasenose College and the Department of Politics an International Relations at the University of Oxford in 2014. He is the leading investigator of the Oxford Policy Dialogue, Co-PI of After Exit: Withdrawal of UN Peace Operations (ESRC), and Co-PI of Military Cultures and Peace Operations (Swedish Research Fund). Previously, he was Assistant Professor of International Relations at the University of Amsterdam. He holds a PhD in Government from the University of Essex (2011). His current research deals with civil wars and peacekeeping. His broader research interests include collective political violence, state development, and comparative politics.

Antonio Sampaio
Research Associate, International Institute for Security Studies

Antônio Sampaio is the Research Associate for Conflict, Security and Development at the International Institute for Strategic Studies (IISS). He focuses on the effects of armed conflict and violence in urban areas. Antônio has conducted field research in Colombia and Brazil, and has written extensively on the increased linkage between urbanisation and conflict in fragile settings. Prior to joining the IISS in London, he was an editor for Globo News TV in Rio de Janeiro.

Nicole Stremlau

Head of the Programme in Comparative Media Law and Policy, University of Oxford

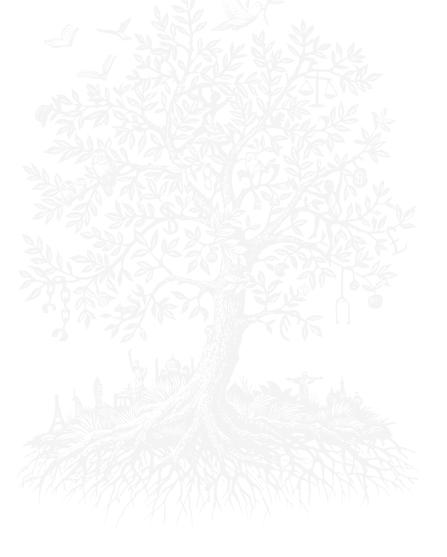

Nicole Stremlau is Research Professor in the Humanities at the University of Johannesburg and she is Head of the Programme in Comparative Media Law and Policy at the University of Oxford. Her research focuses on media and conflict, particularly in the Horn of Africa. She previously worked for a newspaper in Ethiopia, and has researched new technologies and innovation in Somalia and Somaliland and media and election violence in Kenya. She is the recipient of a European Research Council grant that examines questions around social media, governance, and migration. Recent publications include: Media, Conflict and the State in Africa (Cambridge University Press 2018) and Speech and Society in Turbulent Times (Cambridge University Press 2018).

Ian VásquezDirector, Cato Institute's Center for Global Liberty and Prosperity

Ian Vásquez is the director of the Cato Institute's Center for Global Liberty and Prosperity, co-author of The Human Freedom Index, and columnist at El Comercio (Peru). He is editor of Global Fortune: The Stumble and Rise of World Capitalism, and coeditor of Perpetuating Poverty: The World Bank, the IMF and the Developing World. Vásquez is a member of the Mont Pèlerin Society and has testified numerous times in the U.S.

Ruut Veenhoven
Director, World Database of Happiness

Ruut Veenhoven studied sociology and is also accredited in social psychology and social-sexuology. He is emeritus-professor of Social Conditions for Human Happiness at Erasmus University Rotterdam in the Netherlands and extraordinary professor at North-West University in South Africa. Veenhoven's current research is on subjective quality of life. His major publications are Conditions of Happiness (1984), Happiness in Nations (1993), The Four Qualities of Life (2000), and Greater Happiness for a Greater Number: Is that possible and desirable? (2010). Veenhoven has also published on abortion, love, marriage, and parenthood. He is director of the World Database of Happiness and a founding editor of the Journal of Happiness Studies.

Charles WattersProfessor of Wellbeing and Social Care, University of Sussex

Charles Watters is an expert in the field of migration and specifically the impact of migration and displacement on wellbeing. His current research projects focus on the wellbeing and integration of refugee and migrant children in schools across Europe, on the wellbeing of migrants and refugees in urban areas including cities in Europe and India, and on the impact of coastal erosion on vulnerable populations. He is also currently chairing an academic forum on migrants' aspirations.

Scott Winship
Executive Director,
United States Congress Joint Economic Committee

Scott Winship is the executive director of the Joint Economic Committee (JEC) of the US Congress. There he directs the Social Capital Project for JEC Chairman Mike Lee. Prior to joining the JEC, Scott conducted research on living standards, poverty, inequality, unemployment, and economic mobility at the Manhattan Institute, where he was the Walter B. Wriston Fellow, and at the Brookings Institution, where he was a fellow. Earlier in his career he was the research manager of the Pew Economic Mobility Project and a senior policy advisor at Third Way. Scott received a Ph.D. in social policy from Harvard University, where he was a National Science Foundation Graduate Research Fellow and a Fellow in the Multidisciplinary Program on Inequality and Social Policy.

Richard YoungsSenior Fellow, Carnegie Endowment for International Peace

Richard Youngs is a senior fellow in the Democracy, Conflict, and Governance Program, based at Carnegie Europe. He works on EU foreign policy and on issues of international democracy. Youngs is also a professor of international relations at the University of Warwick. Prior to joining Carnegie in July 2013, he was the director of the European think tank FRIDE. He has held positions in the UK Foreign and Commonwealth Office and as an EU Marie Curie fellow. He was a senior fellow at the Transatlantic Academy in Washington, DC, from 2012 to 2013.

Yahong Zhang
Director, Rutgers Institute on Anti-Corruption Studies

Yahong Zhang is an Associate Professor and Ph.D. Program Director in the School of Public Affairs and Administration at Rutgers University—Newark and the Director of the Rutgers Institute on Anti-Corruption Studies. She currently serves as Editorial Board members for Journal of Public Administration Research and Theory, American Review of Public Administration, Journal of Public Administration Education, and Chinese Public Administration Review. Dr. Zhang's research interests include anti-corruption studies, politics-administration relationships, citizen participation, government transparency, public administration education, and quantitative research methods.