

Laura Alfaro

Warren Alpert Professor of Business Administration,
Harvard Business School

Laura Alfaro is the Warren Alpert Professor of Business Administration. She is also a Faculty Research Associate in the National Bureau of Economic Research's International Finance and Macroeconomics Program and the International Trade and Investment Program, a member of the International Finance Corporation Economic Advisory Board, on the Latin-American Financial Regulatory Committee, Faculty Associate at Harvard's Weatherhead Center for International Affairs, and a member of the David Rockefeller Center for Latin American Studies' policy committee, among others. She served as Minister of National Planning and Economic Policy in Costa Rica from 2010-2012. In 2008, she was honoured as a Young Global Leader by the World Economic Forum.

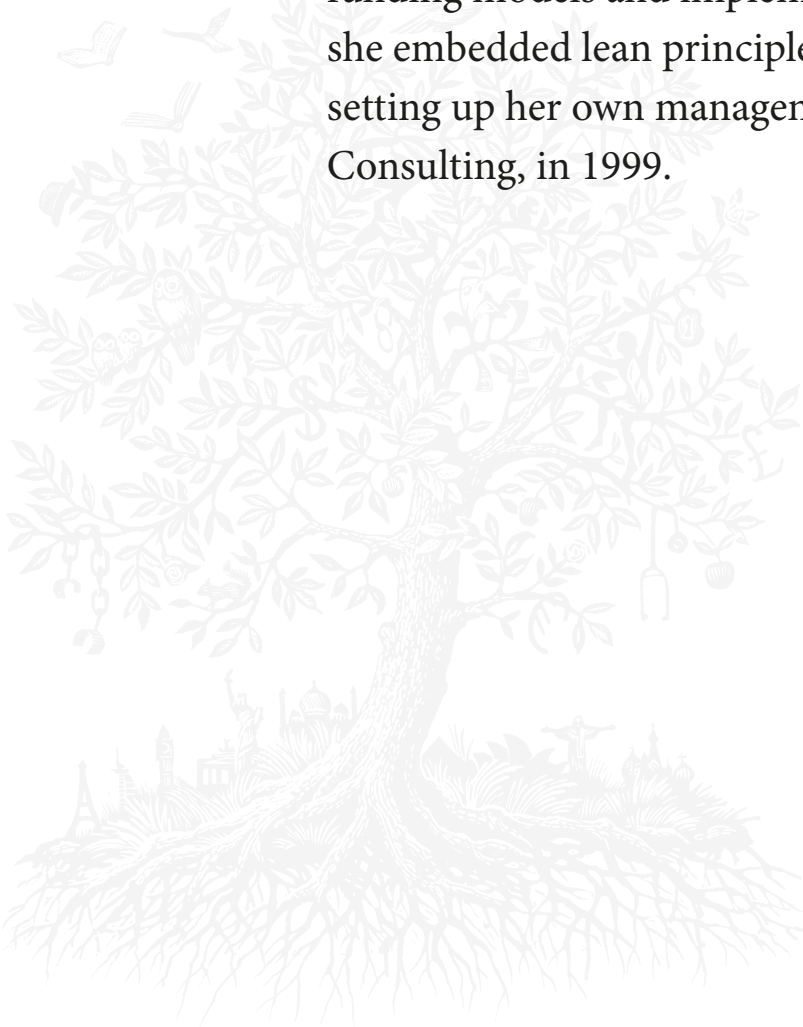

Pam Bateson

CEO and Founder, Thrive Partners

Pam Bateson started working in business at the age of 11 helping out in her father's print business. From this early start, she got a clear sense of the factors that make businesses successful: adaptability, entrepreneurialism, hard work, and the ability to listen to name just a few. Pam honed her skills working in Sainsbury's, where she progressed through the company's management training programme, and in the NHS, where she worked on new funding models and implementing trust status. After this, she embedded lean principles into manufacturing, before setting up her own management consultancy, Zinnia Consulting, in 1999.

Manoel Bittencourt

Professor of Economics, University of the Witwatersrand

Manoel Bittencourt is a professor of Economics at the University of the Witwatersrand, a National Research Foundation-rated researcher, and the deputy director of the Institutions and Political Economy Group. He is also affiliated with the universities of Bristol, Goettingen, Heidelberg and Oxford, and with Economic Research Southern Africa. He holds a Diploma in Economics from the University of Warwick, and a MSc and PhD in Economics from the University of Bristol.

Mikel Casares

Professor, Universidad Publica de Navarra

Mikel Casares is PhD (2000) on Economics from Universidad Publica de Navarra (UPNA) in Pamplona, Spain. Currently, he is Associate Professor (2007) and chair (2018) of the Economics Department at UPNA. He has published numerous articles on Macroeconomics and Monetary Economics in prestigious journals such as the Journal of Monetary Economics, the Journal of Money, Credit and Banking, the International Journal of Central Banking, and the Journal of Economic Dynamics and Control. Miguel Casares had research visiting and collaborations with central banks (European Central Bank, St Louis Fed, Banco de España) to connect his academic activities with a touch on decision making for monetary policy.

Tim Cheston

Senior Manager, The Growth Lab at Harvard
University's Center for International Development

Timothy Cheston joined the Center for International Development (CID)'s Growth Lab as a Research Fellow in 2014. Prior to joining CID, Tim worked for the World Bank in the Social Protection and Labour team for the Latin America and Caribbean region, where he led in the design, negotiation, and supervision of major social protection and labour projects and research in the Dominican Republic, Colombia, Bolivia, and Belize. His research interests focus on: the role of economic diversification in explaining differences in growth between countries as within them; the use of growth diagnostics to formulate more effective economic strategy-making to unlock structural transformation processes; and the formulation of inclusive growth via productive development policies that better integrate the poor into high-productivity activities.

Cletus C. Coughlin

Senior Vice President and Chief of Staff,
Federal Reserve Bank of St Louis

Cletus C. Coughlin is a senior vice president and chief of staff to the president at the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis. He is also a policy associate with the Leverhulme Centre for Research on Globalisation and Economic Policy at the University of Nottingham, England, and serves on the editorial board of the Review of Regional Studies.

Saul Estrin

Professor of Managerial Economics and Strategy,
London School of Economics

Saul Estrin is a Professor of Managerial Economics and Strategy at the London School of Economics (LSE) and the founding Head of the Department of Management. He was formerly Adecco Professor of Business and Society at London Business School where he was the Director of the CIS Middle Europe Centre and Research Director of the Centre for New and Emerging Markets. At LSE he is affiliated with the Centre for Economic Performance and was the Research Director of the Entrepreneurship Institute.

Johannes Fedderke

Professor of International Affairs and African Studies,
Pennsylvania State University

Johannes Fedderke is Director of Economic Research South Africa, Professor at Pennsylvania State University and the Wits Business School. His research interests centre on the determinants of economic growth, with special interest in the role of institutions in long-term economic development. His published work includes empirical and theoretical contributions, and has provided cross-country, panel, and country specific time series evidence on the interaction of growth and institutions.

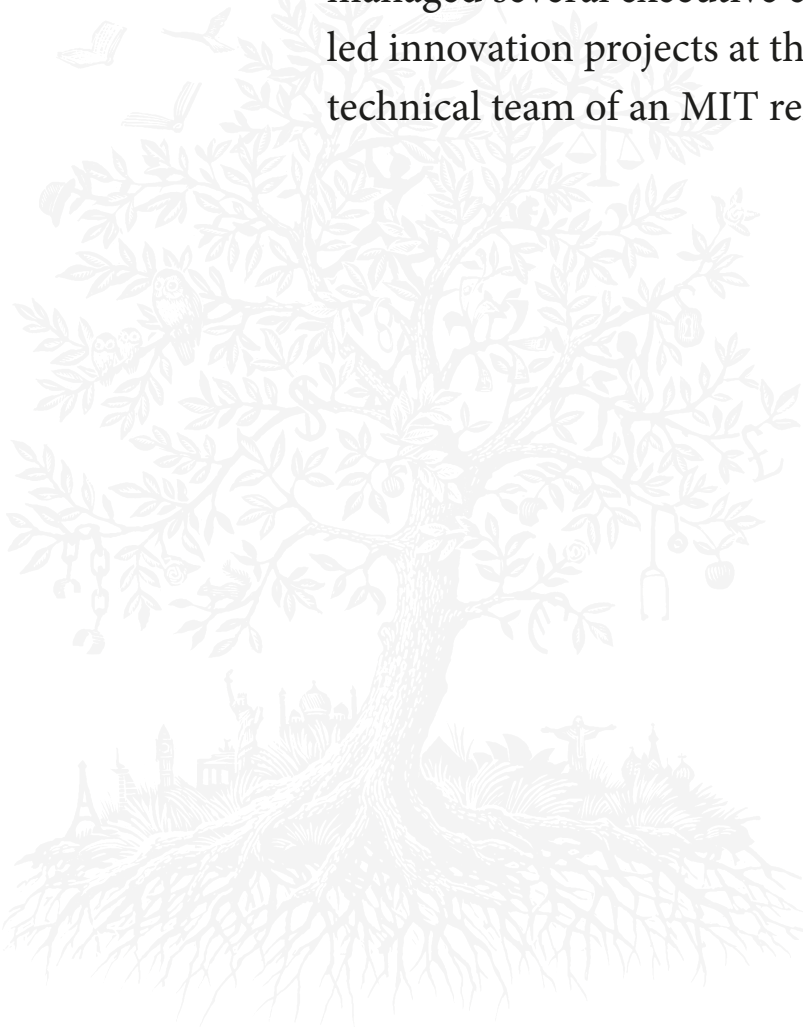

Georgina Campbell Flatter

Director of Business Development for Emerging Markets,
ClimaCell

Georgina Campbell Flatter has committed her career to helping young people develop the skills and mindset needed to tackle grand social challenges through entrepreneurship. Until very recently, Georgina was a Senior Lecturer in Technological Innovation, Entrepreneurship, and Strategic Management at the MIT Sloan School of Management and the Executive Director of the Legatum Center for Development and Entrepreneurship at MIT. She has managed several executive education programs at MIT, led innovation projects at the World Bank, and was on the technical team of an MIT renewable fuels startup.

Paul Frijters

Research Fellow, London School of Economics

Paul Fritjers is a professor of wellbeing economics at the London School of Economics. He specialises in applied micro-econometrics, including labour, happiness, and health economics, and has also worked on pure theoretical topics in macro and micro fields. His main area of interest is in analysing how socio-economic variables affect the human life experience and the ‘unanswerable’ economic mysteries in life.

Jamal Haidar

Assistant Professor of Economics,
American University in Cairo

Jamal Haidar is an assistant professor of economics at The American University in Cairo (AUC). He joined AUC after completing a three-year postdoctoral research fellowship at Harvard University. He holds a PhD in economics from the Paris School of Economics, University of Paris-1 Pantheon Sorbonne (FR), a MA degree in applied economics from Johns Hopkins University, U.S., and a MSc degree in international finance from Cass Business School, City University London, UK. Previously, he worked at the World Bank, International Finance Corporation, International Monetary Fund, and Institute of International Finance in Washington D.C. His fields of specialisation are international economics and development economics.

Andrew Hughes Hallett

Honorary Professor, University of St Andrews

Andrew Hughes Hallett is University Professor Emeritus of Public Policy and Economics in the Schar School of Policy and Government at George Mason University. He is adviser to the European Parliament for Economic and Monetary Affairs; a Fellow of the Royal Society of Edinburgh (Scotland's Academy of Sciences) and former chair of their Economics Committee; and a joint editor of the Scottish Journal of Political Economy.

Flora Huang

Senior Lecturer, University of Essex

Flora Huang is a senior lecturer at the University of Essex. Prior to joining the University of Essex in September 2016, Dr. Huang was a lecturer at the universities of Hull and Leicester. She has worked for international organisations such as the Basel Convention in Geneva and the Office of Legal Affairs of the United Nations Headquarters in New York. She was also a legal consultant in a Chinese bank.

Richard Jeffrey

Chairman of the Investment Committee,
Kingswood Wealth Management

Richard Jeffrey served as the Chief Economist at Cazenove Capital Management Limited, having previously been Chief Investment Officer. He was responsible for the strategic framework supporting the investment teams and has 40 years of investment experience. He is a frequent broadcaster on radio and television and has written for various newspapers and magazines.

Daniel Kammen

Distinguished Professor of Energy, University of Berkeley

Daniel M. Kammen is a Professor at the University of California, Berkeley, with parallel appointments in the Energy and Resources Group where he serves as Chair, the Goldman School of Public Policy where he directs the Center for Environmental Policy, and the department of Nuclear Engineering. Kammen is the founding director of the Renewable and Appropriate Energy Laboratory, and was director of the Transportation Sustainability Research Center from 2007 – 2015.

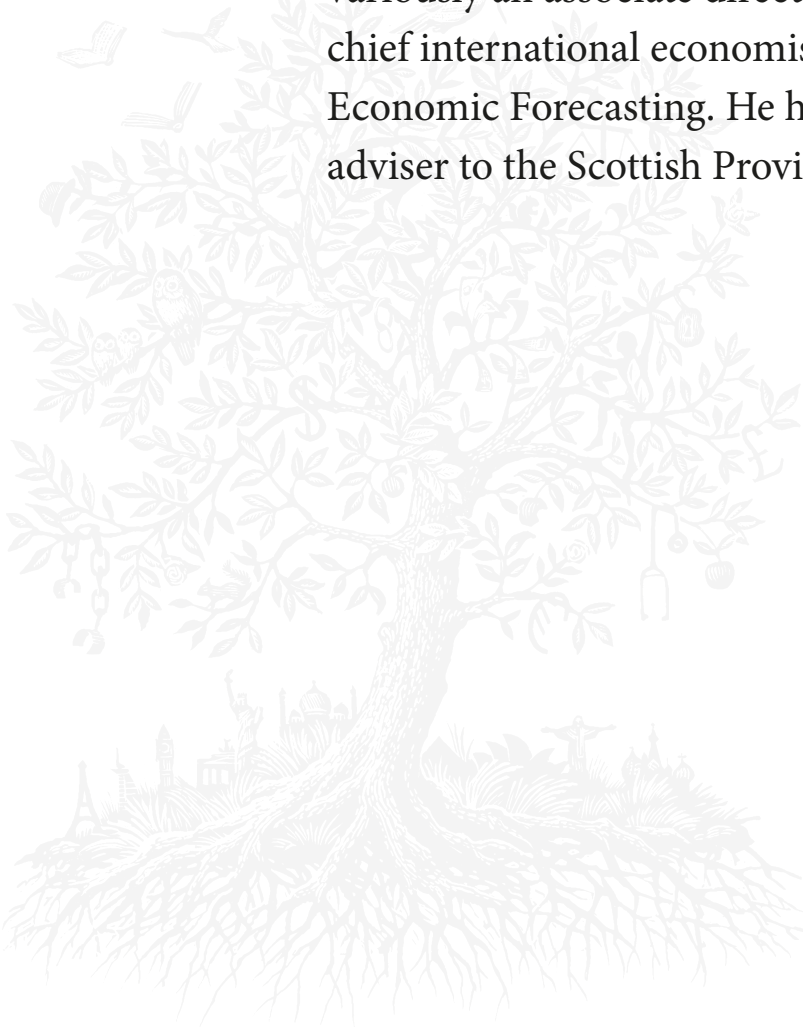

Graeme Leach

Fellow, Legatum Institute

Graeme Leach is founder of Macronomics, a macroeconomic, geopolitical, and future megatrends research consultancy. Prior to establishing his company, he was director of economics at the Legatum Institute, where he remains a senior fellow. Previously, for 16 years, he worked as chief economist and director of policy at the Institute of Directors (IoD), where he was also a board member and is a life fellow. Prior to the IoD he was variously an associate director, chief UK economist, and chief international economist at the Henley Centre for Economic Forecasting. He has also worked as economic adviser to the Scottish Provident investment group.

Prakash Loungani

Assistant Director, International Monetary Fund's
Independent Evaluation Office

Prakash Loungani is Assistant Director and Senior Personnel and Budget Manager in the IMF's Independent Evaluation Office. Previously, he headed the Development Macroeconomics Division in the Research Department and was co-chair of the IMF's Jobs and Growth working group from 2011-15. He is an adjunct professor of management at Vanderbilt University's Owen School, where he has taught in the Executive MBA program since 2001, and adjunct at Johns Hopkins University's Carey School of Business.

Tomasz Mickiewicz

Professor of Economics, Aston University

Tomasz Mickiewicz is the 50th Anniversary Professor of Economics at Aston University, Birmingham; honorary research fellow at University College London; and associate editor of Regional Studies. His research is on how formal and informal institutions affect performance and entrepreneurship. Recent publications include papers in Journal of Business Venturing, Entrepreneurship Theory and Practice, Journal of World Business and others.

Richard Odumodu

Visiting Fellow, Cass Business School

Richard Odumodu is a financial markets and investment management professional with 20 years' experience spanning corporate coverage and advisory, debt origination, structuring and distribution and portfolio management. His career began in Canada with sales trading roles before moving to the UK. From 2007 to 2011 he led Barclays' UK government coverage in the corporate and investment banking division. Since 2011 he has been focused on investment management in emerging and frontier markets, particularly Africa, with lead portfolio manager and fund strategist roles at a boutique and institutional alternative investment managers. He now combines various senior advisory roles at corporates and institutions operating in Africa with his academic work as a Visiting Fellow at Cass Business School Cass where he is completing his doctoral research on capital markets and political economy in Africa.

Vicky Pryce

Board Member, Centre for Economics and Business Research

Vicky Pryce is Chief Economic Adviser and a board member at the Centre for Economics and Business Research. She was previously Senior Managing Director at FTI Consulting, Director General for Economics at the Department for Business, Innovation and Skills, and Joint Head of the UK Government Economic Service. Before that she was Partner at the accounting and consulting firm KPMG after senior economic positions in banking and the oil sector. She holds a number of academic posts and is a Fellow and Council member of the UK Academy for Social Sciences, a Fellow of the Society of Professional Economists, and a Companion of the British Academy of Management. She sits on the Council of the Institute for Fiscal Studies, the Advisory Board of the central banking think-tank OMFIF, and the Economic Advisory Group of the British Chambers of Commerce.

Rita Ramalho

Senior Manager, World Bank's Global Indicators Group

Rita Ramalho is the Senior Manager for the Global Indicators Group which houses Doing Business, Subnational Doing Business, Enterprise Surveys, Women Business and the Law, Enabling the Business of Agriculture, as well as other pilot indicator projects. Previously Rita Ramalho was the Manager of the joint World Bank-IFC Doing Business Report. Prior to that she was the program manager of World Bank-IFC Enterprise Surveys and Women, Business and the Law project.

Mike Reed

Faculty Member of Agricultural Economics,
Kentucky University

Michael Reed is Professor of Agricultural Economics at the University of Kentucky. Reed holds a Ph.D. in economics from Iowa State University (1979); a Doctor Honoris Causa (Honorary Ph.D) from Bucharest University of Agricultural Sciences and Veterinary Medicine (Romania); and an Honorary Ph.D. from the Faculty of Business Administration, Maejo University (Thailand).

Boopen Seetanah

Associate Professor, University of Mauritius

Boopen Seetanah is an associate Professor of International Economics and Finance at the University of Mauritius and the WTO Chair Programme Co-Chair. He is also the director of research at the International Centre for Sustainable Tourism and Hospitality at the University of Mauritius. Boopen's research interest is in international tourism and trade, international finance, and applied economics. He has been a consultant for a number of international organisation such as the World Bank, UNEP, COMESA, RMCE, UNDP, and ADB among others.

Andres Solimano

Founder and Chairman, International Center for Globalization and Development

Andres Solimano holds a Ph.D. in Economics from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and is founder and Chairman of the International Center for Globalization and Development based in Santiago, Chile. Previously, he was also a Regional Advisor at the United Nations Economic Commission for Latin America and the Caribbean, Country Director at the World Bank, Executive Director at the Inter-American Development Bank, and Director of FLACSO-Chile. He is currently CAF-LAC Fellow at Saint Antony's College, Oxford University.

David Stern

Professor, Australian National University

David Stern is a professor in the Crawford School of Public Policy at The Australian National University. He is a research associate in CAMA and CCEP, and a participant in the Energy Change Institute. David is an energy and environmental economist whose research focuses on the role of energy in growth and development and related environmental impacts including climate change.

Mahesh Sugathan

Senior Research Fellow, International Centre for Trade and Sustainable Development

Mahesh Sugathan is a Senior Research Fellow with the International Centre for Trade and Sustainable Development in Geneva working on trade, climate change, and sustainable energy issues, with a focus on climate-technologies. He is also an independent consultant on trade policy issues and in addition provides business facilitation services for private sector firms.

Louis Tay

Associate Professor, Purdue University

Louis Tay is a faculty member in the Department of Psychological Sciences at Purdue University. His research interests are in wellbeing and its assessment in organisations and societies. He has contributed to advisory reports to the United Nations and is the founder of Expimetrics, a technology platform for capturing real-time wellbeing experiences.

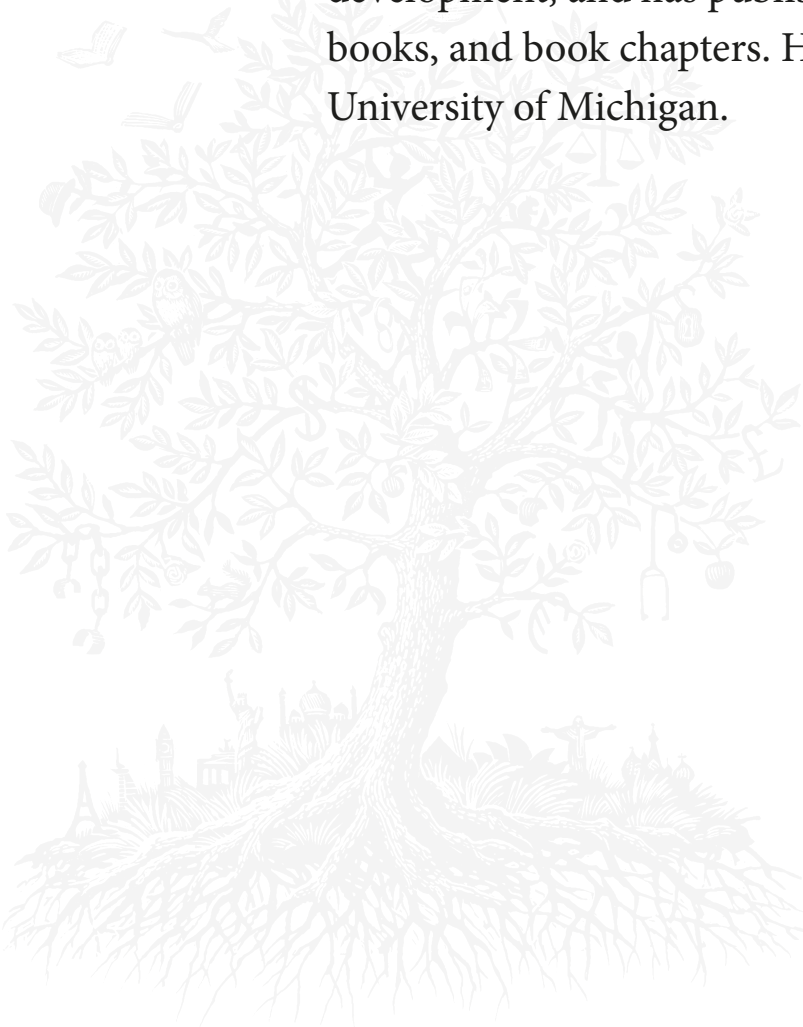

Mike Troilo

Chapman Associate Professor of International Business and Finance, University of Tulsa

Mike Troilo is the Chapman Endowed Chair and Associate Professor of International Business and Finance at the University of Tulsa. His research interests focus on the effects of institutions like legal systems and financial markets on entrepreneurial activity across countries, particularly in transition economies such as China. He has served as a consultant to the United Nations in the Asia Pacific region for entrepreneurship and economic development, and has published over 40 academic articles, books, and book chapters. He earned his PhD at the University of Michigan.

Haakon Vennemo

Adjunct Professor of Economics,
Oslo Metropolitan University.

Haakon Vennemo, is a professor in environmental economics, energy economics, and development issues, with a broad knowledge of macro and micro-economics in general. He has project experience from a large number of countries in Asia, Africa, and Latin-America and is an experienced project manager as well as participant.

Leonard Waverman

Dean of the DeGroote School of Business,
McMaster University

Leonard Waverman is Dean of the DeGroote School of Business at McMaster University. He is a world-renowned expert in international telecommunications and global resources management. He has consulted widely on energy, natural resources, telecommunications and competition policy matters in Canada, the United States, and Europe.

Claudia R. Williamson

Probasco Distinguished Chair of Free Enterprise
University of Tennessee at Chattanooga

Claudia R. Williamson is the Probasco Distinguished Chair of Free Enterprise and Professor of Economics at the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga. She is also Director of the Center for Economic Education. Her main research interests lie at the intersection of applied economic development and political economy.

Horace Yeung

Lecturer in Commercial Law, University of Leicester

Horace Yeung obtained his undergraduate degree in accounting and law with first class honours from the Chinese University of Hong Kong, LLM with distinction from Lancaster University and doctorate from the University of Oxford. He was a Sir Edward Youde Scholar and recipient of the Confucius Institute Highly Commended Prize (for research in Chinese law). Prior to his lectureship with Leicester, he taught at Oxford, Exeter and Universität Osnabrück.

